

Logansport Journal

Logansport, Indiana

June 13, 1900

Bulldog Nearly Kills Boy

Sinks His Teeth into Hans Uzenberger's Abdomen and Limbs.

Chicago, June 12.—Six-year-old Hans Uzenberger was attacked by a large bulldog at Center's Street and Clifton avenue and nearly torn to pieces. Catching the child in the side, the animal carried him about the street, stopping now and then to shake him as though he were a rat. When the dog was beaten off by the police it was found that the boy's abdomen, arms and legs had been torn in fifteen places. The sufferer was taken to his home. 49 Center street. The attending physician said he could not recover. The dog was killed.

Logansport daily journal. (Logansport, Ind.) 1876-1878

<http://chroniclingamerica.loc.gov/lccn/sn84037909/>