VICTIM OF DOG BITE SUES FOR DAMAGES.

Baltimore Man Wants Ten Thousand Dollars From Owner of Vicious Bull Dogs.

Baltimore American.

George J. Davis, who, on the night of May 12 last, was attacked and bitten by two bulldogs at 519 North Paca street, entered suit in the City court yesterday against their owners, Walter, Lemuel and Harvey Duncan, claiming $10,000 damages.

Mr. Davis alleged that the owners of the dogs knew that they were of a fierce disposition and were in the habit of attacking people, yet took no precaution to insure the safety of those who came in contact with them. Mr. Davis stated that he occupied a flat at the house where the dogs are kept, and that he was attacked by them as he was coming down stairs with his wife. He stated that as a result of his fight with the animals he is now in the hospital suffering from permanent injuries.
