CHANCES WITH WOLVES AN ADAMS COUNTY BREEDER OF WOLF-DOG HYBRIDS SAYS THE BEASTS CAN BE COMPLEX PETS.

The mauling and death of a Fort Wayne boy last week gave wolf-dog hybrids a gruesome dose of publicity. That notoriety ought to remind people who own large dogs - especially wolf hybrids - to understand and control their animals' aggressive instincts, said an Adams County couple who raise wolf-dog hybrids. Early April 28, 2-year-old Nicholas Hinton apparently climbed a 6-foot fence around an outdoor kennel at his home. He fell inside, where his family's dogs - a wolf-dog mix and a...

OUTCOME OF RISKS IS UNPREDICTABLE DESPITE CAUTION

A student of risk would have had much to contemplate these last few days in Fort Wayne. Richard Egolf was found strangled in his northeast-side apartment. His friends said Egolf was gay and enjoyed the sort of lifestyle that many thought went out - for all sexual persuasions - about the same time the test for the AIDS virus came in; he picked up strange men in parks and bars. This week, police arrested a man and charged him with Egolf's murder. They met in a bar that same night....

ETHOLOGIST WARNS WOLF-HYBRIDS MAKE DEADLY PETS

An expert in natural behavior patterns of wolves says he tries to discourage people from owning them or wolf-hybrids as pets. But despite incidents like the mauling death of a 2-year-old boy in Fort Wayne, the animal's popularity continues to grow. Erich Klinghammer is the founder of Wolf Park, a 75-acre research and education wildlife park located north of Lafayette. The park specializes in wolf ethology, the study of the animal's natural behavior patterns. About two dozen wolves live...

Don Cains, enforcement supervisor for the animal control department, said neither of the dogs, a pit bull-mix and a wolf-Huskie hybrid,...
