Mauling death probed

ROCKY FACE, Ga. -- No charges have been filed in connection with Saturday's death of a 2-year-old boy who was mauled to death by the family's pit bull. "We will continue our investigation, but we have turned it over to the District Attorney's office and he will conduct an investigation and make a decision," Whitfield County Sheriff Scott Chitwood said Monday. He said an autopsy of Mathew Chase Cummings shows the cause of death was bite marks to the head and neck area caused...

Rocky Face boy killed by dog

ROCKY FACE, Ga. -- Whitfield County officials are investigating the death of a 2-year-old boy apparently killed Saturday afternoon by his parents' pit bull. Sheriff's deputies found the body of Mathew Chase Cummings of Rocky Face, Ga., in the front yard of his 3205 Bates Drive home after receiving a 911 telephone call from the child's parents, officials said. Sheriff's deputies said the child had what appeared to be "bite marks, lacerations and punctures in the head and face..."

Law & Order

University's use of federal funds under review The government is investigating Savannah State University's use of federal Title III funding after allegations that the money was used for unnecessary international travel and campus improvements. The school received about $1.9 million for the self-sufficiency program in 2000-01. Stephanie Babyak, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Department of Education, said the investigation would decide whether officials misused funds to...
